Senator Biggy Offered Eight Thou-sand Dollars for His

Sy Telegraph to The Trees
SACRAMENTO, March 12.—(Special Dispatch.) Had a bombalell exploded in the Senate today it would have caused no more consternation than what followed the announcement by Senator W. J. Biggy of the Twenty-first District of San Francisco that corporation gold was being used to make easy the passage of various bills not in the interests of the people, and that he himself had been offered $8000 to vote for certain measures.

There have been more or less pro-nounced rumors of the use of money in connection with the County Division Bill, insurance bills, San Francisco Fee Bill, and the Scalper Bill; and also the two later so-called "railroad" bills, viz., the Assembly bill No. 702, repealing the act fixing street-car fares in cities of over 100,-000 population, and the Assembly bill, No. 882, abolishing the stop-over privilege No one, however, has yet ventured to make open charges until the swarthy Democrat from San Francisco arose this afternoon, apparently cool and smiling, and hurled defiance into the teeth of his Bretz's arraignment of Marion Cannon in the Assembly two years ago on the occa-sion of the ballot for United States Sen-ator, and the high standing of Mr. Biggy ator, and the high standing of Mr. Biggy gave more emphasis to the charge today. The San Francisco Senator has been a most ardent advocate of the Lexow idea in the upper branch of the Lexislature, and introduced the first measure, similar to the Waymire bill, put in the Senate. Though not a man of marked intellectual statuture also be is, nevertheless, a ready and forestul speaker and keen to detect the worth of a man or measure.

There was no suspicion when Assembly bill No. 702, which passed the Assembly last night so smoothly, was taken up last night so smoothly, was taken by the Senate this afternoon, that the bill would provoke the storm it did, though it had, of course, been stamped from th first as a "railroad" measure.

Mr. Freeman of Riverside, the author of the bill, while a thoroughly honest man, admits that his sympathies are with th rations naturally, as he has been en corporations naturally, as he has been employed by them so constantly.

The bill amends the Civil Code in one respect, as follows: "Rates of fare on cars must not exceed 5 cents for one fare for any distance under three miles; in cities or towns with more than 100,000 inhabitants the rate of fares shall not exceed 5 cents for one fare for any district in one general direction along the whole length of the road or its connections operated by any one person or corporation, etc."

The bill repeals the McCoppin act now it force in San Francisco. Several trivial amendments, having no bearing on the vital principle of the bill, were introduced by Mr. Biggy and voted down. The Sar Francisco Senator then offered an amend ment striking out sec. 3 of the bill, which repeals the McCoppin act. He proceeded to denounce the San Francisco delegation, which he said was here voting against which he said was here voting agains the known wishes of their constituents and any man voting against his amend-ments was a Southern Pacific hireling. Senator Arms, also a Democrat from San Francisco, in a dignified but scathing speech scored Mr. Biggy for what he called his unparliamentary language. He said his unparliamentary language. He said that every time the name of a corporation was mentioned some man got up and dropped his ears and brayed like an ass. The Senator's language, he said, ought to be taken down, and if he were a man of honor he should apologize for it. Mr. Biggy came down the alsie during Mr. Arms's remarks and some onlookers. Arms's remarks and some onlookers thought he was about to attack Mr. Arms. Mr. Biggy, however, passed by the latter, who never flinched, and, going to the desk, asked that the stenographer take down asked that the stenographer take down what he was about to say. He then retired to his seat, and when Mr. Arms had finished his arraignment, arose and said:

"Mr. President, the words of the Senator make me smile." But it was a sardonic smile, and his face was pale with rage. He went on to say that a combina-tion had been formed that had money to spend, and that that combination domin ated the Senate. He had not been here a week at the last session before he was offered $7000 for his vote on a railroad bill, and this session $8000 had been promised him for his vote on bills of interest to gas, water, telephone and railroad monop-olies, but that the portion of the bribe relating to the railroad bill was not to paid in full until he had returned to San Francisco.

and go home if it were not for one measure in which I am interested, the San Joaquin Valley road."

The Senators were dumb with surprise until Mr. Withingtors said the vote on the final passage of the bill would show who were Southern Pacific hirelings. Mr. Pedlar of Fresno said he intended to vote against the bill, but that his intended was not influenced by the remark of the against the bill, but that his intention was not influenced by the remark of the Senator from San Francisco. He had not been approached with a bribe nor had any one else, that he knew.

The amendment that Mr. Biggy had sent to the desk, striking out sec. 2 of the bill, which section repeals the McCoppin act, virtually rendering the bill nugatory, was then put to a vote and, while a majority had been confidently expected for the bill.

THIRTY-FIRST SESSION.

The Senate this morning adopted a con-current resolution requesting the Governor to issue an address to boards of supervisors and the people generally, urging them to make a creditable display at the life was his infatuation for a fair di-vorcee. This lady, whose home during her married life was in an adjoining county, but who had been resident of this city for some time, is a charming woman. Fair met her at a fashionable hotel, where she was staying, and at once it became evident that the millionaire was deeply impressed. The bonanza king was a hand-some man and, notwithstanding his gray some man and, notwithstanding his gray hairs, his vigorous air did not leave him until his fatal illness. He proposed mar-riage to his inamorata, but despite his ardent wooing and his wealth of gold, the object of his affections refused her hand because she still loved her first husband.

Fair was a keen judge of human nature, and he was not unaware that a woman's senses may be dazzled with a glitter of millions. The lady's relatives were with him. He therefore determined upon a grand coup. One evening, when in a more confidential mood than usual, he spoke to the relatives of his lady love about a will which he had just made, and which left made richer than many princes of the royal blood. PUEBLO (Col.,) March 12.—A special to the Chieftain from Walsenburg, a small town fifty-six miles south of Pueblo, says that a mob in ambush at 7:30 this evening fired on a wagon containing nine Italians, who are charged with fatally beating A. J. Hixon, a saloonkeeper at Rouse, a coal Sunday last. The prisoners, who had been lodged in the Walsenburg jail, were taken to the Coroner's inquest at Rouse this afternoon. At the conclusion of the session for the day the prisoners were loaded into a wagon and started back to the jail. At Bear Creek, a region where there is much underbrush, half a mile from Walsenburg, the crack of a score of rifles, presumably in the hands of miners, rang out, Four of the prisoners, whose names carnot be learned on account of the excite ment, were instantly killed. Joe Welby, a young American boy, who was driving the wagon, was also killed. The officers returned the fire, which lasted for several minutes. The most intense excite-

Walsenburg and Rouse are both off the main line of the railroad, and attempts to secure further details have failed because the telegraph offices are not open at night. Mr. Hixon had been struck on the back of the head with a blust James G. Fair, evidence tends to prove that the millionaire made at least two, and probably three, wills within a short time before his death, and that one of these wills post-dated that filed in the Probate Court.

There are many facts which tend to prove these presumptions. In the first place, as Charles Fair states, his father was opposed to trusts. He had so declared himself upon numerous occasions, and he even supplied his son with money with which to contest his mother's will so that he might break the trust therein declared. The Senator's intimates there rico, were arrested in a cabin near by.

Admissions of knowledge of the murder were secured from two of them timmediately upon their arrest, and later they divulged the names of seven others who were with them, and charged Lorenso Danino with the murder. Two of the parties had started south.

Officers quickly set out after them and the entire nine were under arrest by 4 p.m. The names of the additional five are: Pete Jacobini, Francisco Renketto, one Corporalla, one Nijio and one Nicholai, whose Christian names are unknown.

Threats of lynching Danino were genererally indulged in during the day and Senator Seawell's announcement the document was filed, that he knew of another testament, of later date, in which fact that he was the center of attention. Gathering, from Senator Seawell's remarks that the resolution related to him, he asked to hear it read. As the clerk finds the season of the later of later bility that violence would be atten Hixon was rather popular with the American miners and general indignation prevails. He was 36 years old. A wagon with four of the nine prisoners was met at Bear Creek by a party of armed men mounted on horse-back. They commanded Deputy Sheriff Earl Danford, who had charge of the prisoners, to throw up his hands. This he did but the driver, Welby, either became excited or his horses became unmanageable and a volley from the party killed him. Sheriff O'Malley, who was on his way to meet the prisoners, found one of them shot in the breast. He was wounded by a horseman who shot him while he lay on the ground. No trace of the other prisoners can be found, and it is from the treatment accorded

INCOME-TAX CASES.

Atty.-Gen. Olney Argues for the Government.

He Characterizes the Issues Baised by Plaintiffs as Pure Generalities.

All Parties.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service

WASHINGTON, March 12. - The pro-WASHINGTON, March 12. — The proceedings in the income-tax cases in the Supreme Court today opened with an argument by Atty.-Gen. Oney on behalf of the government for the validity of the tax. Mr. Olney said no time need be spent in discussing the averments that the income-tax law is an invasion of vested rights or taxed property without due process of law. The propositions are pure generalities and, if there is anything in them, it is because they comprehend others them, it is because they comprehend others which are the actual subjects of probable which are the actual subjects of probable discussion. Mr. Olney closed as follows: "It would certainly be a mistake to infer that this great array of counsel, this elaborate argumentation, and these numerous and voluminous treatises, miscalled by the name of briefs, have any tendeacy to indicate anything extraordinary or unique either in facts before the court or in the rules of law which are applicable to them. either in facts before the court or in the rules of law which are applicable to them. All that these circumstances prove is the immense pecuniary stake that is being played for. It is so large that counsel fees and costs and printers' bills are absolutely of no consequence. It is so large, and so stimulates the efforts of counsel that no rule or principle that stands in the way, however well settled, and however long and universally acquiesced in, is suffered to pass unchallenged. It is metter for congratulation, indeed, that the existence of the Constitution itself is not impeached, and that we are not treated to a logical demonstration that, for all taxable purposes, we are still under the old Articles of Confederation. Seriously speaking, however, I venture to suggest that all this laborious and erudite and formidable demonstration is bound to be without effect on one distinct ground. In its essence and in its last analysis, it is nothing but a call upon the judicial department of the government to supplant the political in the exercise of taxing power; to substitute its discretion for that of Congress in respect to the subject of power; to substitute its discretion for that of Congress in respect to the subject of taxation, the plan of taxation and all the

of Congress in respect to the subject of taxation, the plan of taxation and all the distinctions and discriminations by which taxation is sought to be equitably adjusted to the resources and capacities of those who have it to bear. Such an effort, however weightily supported, can, I believe, have but one result. It is inevitably predestined to fall, unless this court shall, for the first time in its history, overlook and overstep the limits which separate the judicial from the legislative power and the scrupulous observation of which is absolutely essential to the integrity of the constitutional system of our country." James C. Carter also argued in favor of the constitutionality of the law, and was followed by Mr. Choate, speaking for the appellants. His is the closing argument in the case, and had only fairly opened when the court adjourned for the day. He will take up the constitutional aspects of the question tomorrow.

street, preparatory to erecting at No. 750 Mission street.

In the bores found the teeth remained and showed that the woman who used them was very old. They were worn through the crowns and were very irregular, the molars being most ragged, which was evidence that their owner had been more vegetarian than carniverous.

The ribs at the junction with the breast bone had been quite ossified, a condition only present in old people, and the lines of union between the bones of the skull were equally solid.

There was no evidence that the remains had ever been coffined or boxed, but a few shreds of coarse bagging suggested her having been crowded into a sack and thrown into a hole in the sand many years ago, not less than thirty. That the lot had originally been low and had been filled by dumping refuse was shown by the presence of tin cans and broken glass at levels lower than that at which the skeleton was found turned.

There were no bullet holes in the skull, nor were any of the bones so fractured as to suggest foul play.

"That controversy has all been settled and Bluefields is now under the rule of Nicaragua. Eengland held off and took no part in the arbitration that led up to the agreement. By the treaty of 1860 at Managua, England withdrew her protectorate from the Indians at Bluefields. England did not, therefore, feel that she was called on to interfere when the Nicaragua government called the Mosquito Indians to an account for their depredations. Satisfactory reparation was made to Nicaragua and the trouble ended."

The Nicaragua Canal, which is arousing a good deal of interest in this country just now, according to Gen. Barrios and Minister Guzman, is attracting even more attention and interest in Nicaragua. Gen. Barrios said:

"The people of Nicaragua are eagerly waiting for this canal to be built. They feel that it is only a question of time until a high-waterway is constructed. They hope that the work will be done under the supervision of the United States. We would regret it if England or any other foreign power should assume the task of building the canal, I have watched with interest the treatment that the Nicaragua bill has received in your Congress and I am led to believe that the next Congress will authorize the beginning of the work."

"It would be a great thing for this country and also for our country. The United States should control the Nicaragua Canal in the west as England controls the Suez Canal in the east. The work that would be entailed in building the canal would give an impetus to our country. I have talked with men at Washington who are interested in the measure and I think, as does Gen. It is understood that there were some offered, but the company desired to take no risk in the matter. Honolulu advices to March 5 are:
Work consequent to the rebellion, so far as the military organizations are concerned, was practically completed one Friday when the judge advocate of the Military Commission associated that the government had no more cases to bring before that body. All cases have been acted upon and sentences of only a few minor offenders have yet to be made known. Natives convicted have, as a rule, been sentenced to five years' imprisonment at hard labor, the usual fine of $5000 being remitted by the President. The ex-Queen has been sentenced to five years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $5000. She is still confined in the room in the executive building where she was placed on the day of her arrest, and is under a guard of the military. The government for amexation is gaining ground among the natives, and the formation of an annexation league by Sam Parker, one of the ex-Queen's comm.ssioners at Washington, and other prominent native Hawaiians and half-whites, will doubtless result in mouster annexation petitions from all parts of the islands. A remark reported to have come from a prominent British official that he expected "this thing would be repeated in a short time," shows that while the superficial attitude of the English may be friendly, they have no deep-scated love for the republic or the possibility of the United States controlling this territory.

Stories published in American papers of tortures practiced upon political prisoners to bring about confessions have aroused a feeling of indignation throughout the community. They are thoroughly and completely without foundation. Even the Royalists condemn the yarns, and it is hardly possible that steps will be taken to discover whether the articles originated here or were manufactured in the United States, the latter being the most generally-accepted version.

The news of the surrender of the Ping-Yuen squadron by Admiral Ting and the admiral's suicide before the Jap-anese took possession of the vessels, has been repeatedly told, but an interesting detail of the surrender has just become

The Japanese officers urged Admiral Ting to seek an asylum in Japan until the end of the war. This favor Ting politely declined on the ground that the enmity between the two nations forbade him to accept such a courtesy, although he appre-ciated the spirit in which it was tendered. On the morning of February 13 a messenger again presented bimself, announcing, as he came on board the flagship, that his leader had committed suicide immediately after writing a response to Admiral Ro's letter offering an asylum. In his finaf dispatch Ting expressed thanks for the promise that his followers should not be taken of the forts, ships and other property before February 16. This request was granted in a communication addressed by Ro to "the officer commanding the Ping-Yuen squadron."

The loss of the Japanese in taking Wei-Hai-Wei is not fully known. Among the Chinese 1500 are believed to have been killed, 200 by drowning when the Lai-Yuen capsized and sank. Of the Japanese topedo crews, nine were instantly killed, two mortally wounded, five frozen or drowned and thirty-one injured. All these casualities, as well as the loss of the two boats, occurred on the first night.

During the two weeks of constant cannonading Admiral Ro's men-of-war suffered scarcely any material damage. Twenty-seven men were killed and thirty-eight injured. The captured ships requiring elight repairing to make them thoroughly serviceable, are the Chen-Yuen Ping-Yuen, Chi-Yuen, Kwang-Ping and four gun-hoats. BAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—Fletcher 2. The price he bid was $306,000 and then he stopped, leaving the auction-room surprised that the property was not knocked down to him at that figure. Now, however, he has closed with the Ryer estate for it after all, at a figure very close to that of his original bid.

The property has a frontage of seventy feet on Third street and seventy-five on Market street, or an area of 5250 square feet. At the price of $306,000 the rate per square foot is $58.

Last week the other property of the Ryer estate was sold to James D. Phelan, being confirmed to him by the Superior Court, for $501,000. This property, fronting on Market, Ellis and Stockton streets, covers an area of 6209 square feet, so that the rate paid was $30 a square foot. At present there is a brick and plaster building on the lot, four stories in height, containing six stores and an office and rooming-house in the upperfloors. The building pays a rental of $1685 a month. The price paid is a moderate one, considering the advantageous location. The supposition is that a fine building will be erected on the site.

Associated Press Leases' wire Service.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The American mail steamship Allancia, which was proceeding from Colon to New York on the 6th inst., got sight of a barkentine-rigged steamer under the land off the eastern shore of Cuba, and which headed directly toward the Allancia. At 7 o'clock, when about two and a half miles distant, she hoisted the Spanish flag, which was saluted by hoisting the American ensign and dipping, which act of courtesy was answered by the Spaniard.

At 7:15 the latter fired a blank cartridge to leeward, soon followed by another. The American ensign was again hoisted and dipped, but the courte and speed of the ship was not changed, no hostile demonstration being anticipated. The Allancia was then more than six miles off land. The Spanish man-of-war was not satisfied, however, with even the double salute, but proceeded to chase the American to the fullest speed. Seeing the Allancia drawing away she hauled to, bringing her guns to bear and fired a solid shot which struck the water less than an eighth of a mile away from the ship and directly in line. This was followed by two more solid shots which fortunately did not reach their mark, the second striking the water in plain sight of the ship.

At each shot the Spanish ship hauled to to get the range of the American ship before firing on her, plainly showing an intention to hit if she could. Capt. Grossman of the Allancia, knowing he was more than two leagues from land and on the big high seas, ordered full steam and gradually drew out of range. The chase was kept up for more than twenty-five miles, however.

This outrage has been reponted to the Secretary of State by Capt. Crossman, and there is no doubt a prompt demand will be made on the Spanish government for an explanation of the insuit and a reason required for the attempt made to stop an American mail steamer on the high seas in time of peace.

"We were six miles off the shore on the high seas," he said, "and I do not thin! we were six miss on the shore on the high seas," he said, "and I do not think we were responsible to the Cubans or any-body else for being in those waters. The shots were fired doubtless by some conceited Spaniard who has an idea that he can stop anything that floats. However, he was disappointed, for it never occurred to me for a moment to lay to.
"It is customary for us to run within half a mile of the Cuban coast, and this time we were farther away from it than even that, and I really cannot tell why the shots were fired."

Its answer to a question as to whether or not the shots might have been fired by the gunboat with the idea that his boat belonged to the revolutionists in Cuba, the captain said: "They might have been practicing on us."

The Aliancia has been running between this port and Colon for a number of years, making one trip each month. She leaves here on the 26th of each month, and starts here on the 28th of each month, and starts on her return trip on the 5th of the follow-ing month. She carries the United States mail, and has passenger accommodations for 150 cabin passengers; including the officers she carries a crew of sixty men.

scene of some remarkable cycling performances.

It has been placed at the disposal of W. J. Edwards, who will try for the quarter, half, three quasters, telemeter, and mile records over it this week. The course at Livermore was not suitable, as the wind has blown steadily from the wrong quarter ever since the riders want down there to establish a new set of records.

Edwards, accompanied by his trainer, Richard Aylward, and Tony Deimas, Henry Smitch, Allen Jones and Oscar Osen, the quad team, have returned to this city and will locate in Alameda.

The first trains will probably be run on Wednesday afternoon. A strip of the speed track fifteen feet wide is being specially prepared and, owing to its apringy nature, it is expected to prove a fast racing surface.

The course over which the whestmen will side is 1½ miles long, which will permit of their using a bit over a furtong in which to get headway for a start.

Called to Account for His Acts by the Newspapers He Turns Loose His Dirty Sluices on Them.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service VICTORIA (B. C.,) March 12.—Nanalmo has for the past month been the scene of a pitched battle between Rev. Mr. McRae, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, and H. Dean, city editor of the Nanalmo Free Press. The minister posed as a local Parkhurst, and announced sensational themes, drawing crowded houses. In the pulpit, however, he fought shy of his subjects, his courage failing him. The Free pulpit, however, he fought sny of his sub-jects, his courage failing him. The Free Press advised him to "discontinue his take advance notices or deliver the goods he contracted to supply."

Then came a declaration of war by the preacher upon the unrighteous press. He denied the right of any paper to criticise a minister of the sospel, who was a

For a full hour and twenty minutes he poured out a torrent of invectives against Dean, whom he mentioned by name repeatedly, and the paper with which he was connected.

His text that evening happened to be a text from St. Paul's epistile to the Romans, "If it be possible, as much as you can, live peaceably with all men." Such teaching was all very well in a general way, the pastor informed his congregation. There were times, however, when one had to demonstrate that he was not a sheep, and this was one of them. He wished every one present to understand that he had no hesitarcy in taking up the gauntiet as champion of the church against the licentious, lying, soul-slaying press; in fact, such a contest found him in his element. He held that, as a general rule, not a paper on the Pacific Coast was fit for a decent man to read, much less a womanly woman, and so thoroughly rotten was the press that one might as well talk of reforming the devil as of purifying it. What was wanted was to kill the present newspapers and build up better ones upon a standard of religious and scientific education.

Such a rabid, immoderate and ill-tem-

Such a rabid, immoderate and ill-tem pered address was probably never before listened to in an American church, and the congregation by turns laughed and hissed at him.

The editor preferred charges against McRae to the Presbytery, where the complaint was dismissed, and Dean appealed to the church synod, and has commenced a civil suit for slander against the minister, summoning practically the entire congregation to the witness box.

STREET-PAVING.

MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION CON-SIDERING THAT QUESTION.

Number of Experiments Will be Made in Order to Find Out Which is the Most Durable.

ssociated Press Leased-wire Service SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—The Merchants' Association, which has done good work in the matter of street-sweeping, and thus giving employment to many de persons, has engaged Ernest McCullough as consulting engineer, with a view of in-vestigating the subject of paving the different streets of the city.

It is the intention to pave a number of blocks as an experiment, that a conclusion may be reached as to the best pavements in point of durability and economy. The experiences of other large cities in this connection will also be consuited, as it is the desire of the association to introduce the best system obtainable.

The street-sweeping methods introduced by the association have been a pronounced success. All the streets this side of Channel are sweet, and Market street is cleaned four times a day. The old system of sweeping was found to be imperfect, and many of the streets were so filthy that from $40 to $50 per week was expended in cleaning them. Contracts were taken to do this work at two-thirds the cost, so that the city has derived much benefit from the efforts of the association, which is allowed only $6000 per month by the street department.

There are three things that give a woman perfect form, movement and disposition. Resolved into rules, they are as follows: Don't fret, keep clean, and, finally, keep supple. To keep supple a woman must begin by breathing right, then she must walk with her muscless instead of her bones, and, lastly, she must exercise regularly. The best way to keep clean is to rub a nice, soft cream into your skin before taking a bath, and then take that bath just as hot as possible. The cream feeds the skin and the bot water cleanses and softens it. The way to keep from fretting is to put your thoughts upon something else than yourself, and, above all, to have an interest or object in life. No woman need fear old age if she has lived up to the these rules.

MORNING MASS

They Attack the Priest and Try to Obtain Possession of the Church.

Bevolvers and Knives are Drawn and Wounded—The Police are

"OMAHA, March 11.—During early morning mass at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church today, a 'party of Poles, formerly members of the congregation, but ousted by Bishop Scannel, entered the church and attempted to take possession. Father Karminski, who was saying mass, resisted the attempt to capture the church and one of the invading party opened fire. Father Karminski drew a revolver and fired into the attacking party and after a long fusiliade the invaders withdrew, leaving their wounded in the church. Those wounded were: F. Dargaczewski, shot through both legs; John Koricks, shot through both legs; John Koricks, shot through both legs; John Koricks, shot through between the said Police were summoned, and after a hard fight got possession of the church.

Several people have been arrested, among them Father Karminski, and are now in Jail.

The trouble was the outgrowth of dissensions which have torn the church for two years. Bishop Scannell removed the priest in charge, in spite of the protests of the leading men of the congregation, and the matter was carried into court. Three weeks ago the District Court decided that the bishop should have possession and the trouble was supposed to be ended. When the officers arrived on the scene this morning they found an infuriated mob surrounding the church building and it was necessary to fight their way into the building. There they found the priest in full possession and backed by five altar boys. Two wounded men were lying in the aisle. More trouble is feared and another battalion of police has been sent to the neighborhood of the church.

PRIEST SURPRISED. Although the attack was a surprise to

Although the attack was a surprise to the priest, something of the kind had been expected for some time and he had sranged a signal to call his supporters around him when it should occur. This signal was the ringing of the church bells. The enemy had tumbled to this fact and when the attack was made men pulled the ropes of the bell outside and had the them to a fence. Priest Karminski discevered this, and after closing the doors of the church he sent one of the boys into the tower and soon the danger signal was pealing over the land.

As soon as it was heard his supporters began to rally, coming to the side door of the church and being admitted within. On their way to the building they were welcomed by the enemy with clubs and rocks, but nothing dainted, they arrived at the rallying place. The enemy decided that this would have to be stopped and made a rush for the door. Joseph Inda, who, next to the priest, is at the head of the congregation which has possession of the church. was stationed on the steps as a guard, and bravely he met the onslaught. But numbers were too much for him and he was downed. His head was battered with the blows of clubs and rocks and he has a deep and long gash on his forehead which was made with a folic. His defense, however, gave time to the atcacked to close and lock the doors of the church, and the enemy was again balked. Inda was carried to his home. While his injuries are severe, they are not danger-ous.

Inda was carried to his home. While his injuries are severe, they are not dangerous.

The parties making the attack claim to have the right on their side. They say that Judge Ambrose decided that the property belonged to the Roman Catholic church, and if so the title is vested in Hishop Scannell. If this is the case then the bishop has the power to appoint a priest to carry on the services. They claim that the present congregation is not Roman Catholic and therefore it has no right to the property. The other side also claims a right to the property. They admit that it belongs to the Roman Catholic church, but they say that as they paid for it with their money they ought to have a voice in the decision as to whom the title should pass. It is now deeded to Vicar-General Choka, and they refuse to transfer the deed to Bishop Scannell. So long as the bishop did not have the deed they claim that he had refused to appoint a priest and that therefore they elected the present priest themselves. Priest Karminski was raised to the priest-hood by Archbishop Vilatte to carry on the services of the church according to the Latin rite, and they claim that he is as much a Roman Catholic as Bishop Scannell.

The congregation is about evenly divided,

The congregation is about evenly divided, about eighty families being on each side. The leader of the Scannell division seems to be Joseph Nowicki. Priest Karminski and Joseph Inda appear to be at the head of the other faction. The priest claims that he has been threatened frequently by his enemies. They desire to kill him, he says, and have held meetings to lay plans for doing so, but the bishop has told them not to do this. He thinks that the whole trouble was caused by Nowicki.

SAN DIEGO, March 12.—J. McCormack, another real estate dealer of this city, was arrested and held in $500 bonds for embeaulement. He has been before the court at least four times in the past three months charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, but as the amounts obtained in each case were small he was allowed to pay up and keep the matter quiet. Todax's examination, however, was more allowed to pay up and keep the matter quiet. Today's examination, however, was more serious. Thomas E. Ashton of Holton, Kan., sent $220 to McCormack last June to pay off a mortgage held by Henry Pahlow, and McCormack, so far as can be discovered, devoted the money to his own use. Ashton found that McCormack had gone off on a drunk with his money, and he had to pay the amount over again. Six or seven weeks ago McCormack received $460 in commissions to divide with a partner, but he again went away, and his partner got nothing. McCormack began to pass checks that turned out to be bogus, and he narrowly escaped punishment several times.

SAN DIEGO, March 12.—Capt. Matthew Martin, skipper of the Wahlberg, who so suddenly disappeared some days ago, returned yesterday. Skipped Out.

STOCKTON, March 12.—It was learned today that for several days officers have been shadowing three men and a woman, who have been living in an old house in the southern part of the town, near the railroad track. They are suspected of the forty passengers yesterday, showing ing the robbers who held up the mail at Castle Switch last Friday night.

Two of the men answer the descriptions of the two who held up the express train in Tole county last October and secured a large sum of money.

Last evening this mysterious quartette eluded the officers and slipped out of town. Two of the men and the woman left in a covered wagon, and the other man drove off in a buggy. The tracks left by the buggy tally exactly with the impressions made by the buggy that was hitched near the Armstrong switch last Priday night.

Partially Released.

SAN DIEGO, March 12. — Colector Fisher received word yesterday from United States District Attorney Denis deciding that the case against the schooner Wahlberg must be instituted in the portfrom which she cleared, San Francisco, Fisher accordingly released the vessel, so far as he was concerned, and wired the department of Denis's decision.

ST. LOUIS (Mo.,) March 12.—The annual report of President George Gould of the Missouri Pacific and St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern radiway companies, presented at the annual meeting of stockholders today, showed that notwithstanding the troubles and depressions experienced during the past year the road is not financially embarrassed. A synopsis of the financial report follows: Gross earnings from traffic, $21,800,645; operating expenses, $16,483,475; net earnings, $5,317,170; other ancome, $741,439; total income, $6,608,609; percentage of expenses to gross earnings, 75.6.

Oharges against income: Accrued interest on bonds, $51,28,378; taxes, $896,321; rentals paid, $520,777; sundry amounts, $239,447; interest paid on advances by directors in full to December 31, 1894, $1,207,041.; total, $7,991,985, showing a deficiency of $1,933,355. The larger part of this deficiency is caused by the payment of several years' interest on advances by the directors, bringing the account up to December 31, 1894, while the decrease in earnings from truffic amounted to $2,217,692; expenses were reduced $1,773,692.

The property was well improved and maintained, notwithistanding the above reduction in expenses. In the report President Gould called attention to the financial depression and strikes that prevailed during the years 1893 and 1894 and added:

"Owing to the financial conditions of the country and the stagnation of business, no now enterprizes were begun and many industries were closed, or their operations reduced, awaiting the solution of the maintained. It was hoped that Congress would pass the necessary laws to enable the radiways to divide their business and legalize the payment of belances to each other. In this way rates would become uniform and there would be no discrimination, the interstate commerce law would become thoroughly effective and the business community put upon an equal and cure foundation. It is difficult to see how the radiroad problem can be solved without some such legislation."

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—The thick fog early this morning was the veil be-hind which desperate white levee laborers gathered, and which they penetrated with Winchester rifles all aimed at the colored mon-union workmen on the ships loading at the dock. The attack was made at points several miles apart just before the arrival of the police, and as a result there are half a dozen corpses and a dozen there are half a dozen corpses and a dozen or so wounded men.

The police saw the attack, but no arrests were made, they claiming they were too few to cope with the unexpected outbreak. The day before the massacre all was quiet and the Governor saw no grounds for interference, but today the business men are denouncing both, the militia is in readiness to move, an appeal to the Federal government has virtually been made, and even the foreign consuls have decided to join in the move for peace at any price.

The causes which led to the trouble have been of long standing and grew out of the attempt of ship agents and others interested to reduce rates. The white screw men claim that the colored men were given a share of the work, violated the agreement in order to obtain more work, and gradually crowded the white work, and gradually crowded the white men off.

The white association then severed all ties with the blacks and refused to work with them or for the men who employed them. The white longshoremen joined the screw men in this. Since then the steamship lines have been gradually going over to the negroes. Lately the white screw men quit work on the lines still loyal to them, stating they would not work until the whole affair was straightened out. Several more lines then took on negro laborers from necessity.

The white union finally determined to retaliate upon the stevedores by offering to reduce rates and deal with the ships direct. Ships in haste accepted the offer, but the agents stood by the stevedores. The latter offered to pay more than the screw men asked, but the screw men refused to deal with them. The agents offered to pay the screw men their wages and place the stevedores over them as superintendents, but this the screw men declined. Then the stevedores began importing colored screw men from Galveston, and the whites, growing desperate, broke loose in riots.

The dead are: William Campbell, colored screw man, shot at Phillips street; Jules Calice Caribbe, shoemaker, shot in front of Lyon's clothing store; unknown man, shot in vicinity of Cromwell Line; negro, in same vicinity, not yet identified; Leonard Mallard, a colored screw man.

The injured are: James A. Bane, white, purser on the steamship Engineer, shot in the head twice, arm once, dangerously injured; Henry Brown, colored screw man, shot five times, both arms and both legs, will recover; Lem Persien, colored, coal whoeler, shot seven times both legs, thigh and head, may recover; Lunis Cast, colored, employee sugar refinery, shot in the hip, will recover; Billy Williams, colored screw man, shot in leg, will recover; Frank Lighthall, colored, shot in the leg, dangerously; Marion Brooks, white long-shoreman, shot in right leg below knee; two negroes, names unknown, jumped into the river and are supposed to be drowned. Another body has been identified as that of Henry James, a colored laborer. Henry Bland, a colored laborer, who resides in Algiers, crossed the river this morning in search of work, and had just left the ferry when the fight began. He received a load of shot in the body and was taken back to his home where he now lies in a dangerous condition.

The police up to 8 o'clock tonight had made but two arrests in connection with the riot. Robert Brooks and Mike Fitzpatrick, both white screw men, were taken lyto custody early in the evening. Both were wounded, Brooks in the groin and Fitzpatrick in the wrist, and are said to have been shot by their comrades during the promiscuous firing. The prisoners were charged with inciting to riot, and were remanded to await a hearing.

Carefully reviewing the happenings of the morning, everything would seem to indicate the attack being a prearranged affair. It is rumored, and there is every reason to believe the rumor to be correct, that a secret meeting was held last night and the bloody affair of this morning carefully mapped out. The details seem to be that the crowd of rioters who were sent uptown were residents of the lower districts, while those who were used towntown were those who live uptovn. The guns and riffes which were used by the downtown men, who went uptown, seem to have been deposited in the various saloons along, the levee. The men assembled somewhere in the vicinity of Nun street, and in a dense fog proceeded up the levee. It seemed to be generally understood that the guns used by the men was went to town were taken to some place in the vicinity of the sugar refineries in a wagon, and then were refineries in a wagon, and then we resumed on the levee at an early hour this morning. At the head of Josephine street on negro was killed by white seamen. In the vicinity of the French market several negroes were wounded. At about 7 o'clock fifty screwmen came to the Harrison-Cromwell line and fired at the negroes as they came along. About twelve were killed. ARMED MOB.

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.-The levee roubles from Louisiana avenue to Mandeville, street is in the hands of an armed mob. The police are powerless. The white men are completely in control and have declared that no negro shall appear upon the levee front. All work on the levee is practically at a standstill.

Rioting and bloodshed began this morning at 7 o'clock, and resulted in the killing of two men and a wholesale discharge of drearms in two sections of the city. The morning was very foggy. Police were massed in the Sixth Precinct police station all night, under command of Acting Chief of Police John Journe. Everything was quiet, when there came a message that a dozen men had been killed in front of Jackson Square, and a terrible riot was in progress. The police were at once hustled into patrol wagons and hurried away. They had barely gone when Sergeant Richard Walish, in command of the precinct, heard a volley from the direction of the levee in front of the station. He rushed to the scene, and among the freight cars, between Philip and First streets, he found a crowd of negroes surrounding a wounded companion. The man's head was covered with Blood. He was shot in the mouth. The negro, who was unknown, was taken to the station. Those about declare he was crossing the levee, and found a mob of 250 men with Winchester rifles and other arms. They marched along the levee to Eighth street, then back to Chopitoulas street to Jackson and dispersed. According to what seems prearranged plans at Washington street they were arrested by Sergt. Walsh, who recognized one of the men among the leaders as Walter Owens.

NEGROES PANIC-STRICKEN.

NEGROES PANIC-STRICKEN.

Port Warden McCubben said the rioters were from downtown, and did not belong to the screwmen. At 8:30 everything uptown was comparatively quiet with few weapons in sight. All the negroes had left the levee. The mob deposited their shotguns and rifles in bar-rooms. While this was going on four negroes had been shot and one Caribean killed at the French market. The trouble occurred at the landing of the Harrison line steamships opposite Jackson Square. In the fog a hundred armed men got through the guards of police and opened fire on the negroes at work. They fied in terror, some jumping into the river. Those who ran across the levee, in the direction of the square, were subjected to a deadly volley. The shots seemed to come from doorways, windows, galleries and the street. Look where they would the negroes saw pistols and heard reports, as revolvers were discharged. Each man ran in a different direction, and the poor creatures seemed to be panic-strickers.

TOTALLY UNEXPECTED. NEGROES PANIC-STRICKEN. TOTALLY UNEXPECTED.

Those whites not armed with revolvers picked up stones, clubs and other improvised weapons and attacked the negroes. For many minutes firing was congroes. For many minutes firing was continued on the river front, and the police made no move against the murderers. Not until every negro had fied did the white men desist. Joe Collins, Thomas Collins and one unknown negro have been killed. Two unknown negroes are wounded. The latter were taken to Charity Hospital. The entire police force has been called to the levee. Gov. Fowler has been called to the levee. Gov. Fowler has been called to the levee in creatiness. At this writing the members of the mob are drinking. The police fear more trouble. Another riot is expected any moment. The report that a white longshoreman had been killed is denied.

The time of the shooting seemed to have been fixed for the hour just preceding the beginning of the working day. As a usual thing the stevedores and longshoremen begin work at 7 o'clock, and it was just before that hour the firing began. It seems to have been totally unexpected, for the negroes were upon the levee in large numbers. They evidently believed there was a sufficient police force on the river front to protect them.

It is positively known that four negroes are dead. Of these three one is unknown; the fourth is a Carribean. At the hospital there are eight wounded. Of this number are eight wounded. ber two are dying. They are Henry Brown, shot ave times in the breast, and Joseph Heilard, shot through the forehead with a Winchester rifle.

These were promptly dismissed, and they left at once for their homes.

One of these was Robert Aitkins; he received four wounds, the bullets being of a small caliber. He stated that he was talking to the purser of the steamship and Engineer J. A. Bain, when without warning a number of shots were fired at him, the shooters being seventy feet away. The fog was so thick he could not identify those who did the shooting. He immediately ran aboard the vessel. The purser fell where he was shot. Aitkins stated that as soon as the firing began there were policemen between the rioters and himself and Purser Bain and they immediately fell flat on their stomachs behind some cotton bales. When questioned every officer declared he had not been detailed on the levee after 8 o'clock.

Leonard Melard, scaleman, is dying with a bullet in his brain. L. Coste was shot at Front and St. Peter's street. He wasn't working. The wound is not dangerous gang who shot him, but it would be impossible to identify them, he says, owing to the fog. Jim Preston was on the Harrison line wharf. His entire back was perforated with small bullets, about 22 caliber. Preston likewise stated there was a great mob of armed men. His wounds, one very painful, may result fatally. Henry Brown, aged 31 years, was shot five times. He has two gaping wounds in the right breast, made by large balls; it wo in the right hip, and one in the right two in the right hip, and one in the right arm. Although so badly hurt, he is making a brave fight for his life.

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—The Bureau of Freight Transportation held a special meeting this morning to discuss the troubles, and requested the various commercial bodies to send delegates to a general meeting at 1 p.m., to take the necessary steps to protect commerce and the lives and property of citizens. The response to the call was unanimous, and a session tasting until midnight was the result. The debate was heated, and finally resulted in the adoption of an address to the people. A BOMBSHELL.

By a vote of 31 to 3 the Senate sustained Gov. Budd's veto of the Pure Milk Bull.

One of the sensations of the session occurred during the debate over a substitute bill reported from the Assembly Committee on Corperations, amending the law relating to street railroads.

Mr. Biggy of San Francisco started the excitement by denouncing the bill as victous, and said that under it all theiransfer system would be abolished, as the present Market-street system unites many different companies or corporations.

He offered a series of amendments designed to kill the bill, but each was voted down by a large majority. His last amendment was to strike out the section repealing the McCoppin act.

Mr. Gesford of Napa made a strong plea against the repeal of the act of 1378.

A very heated debate followed, in the course of which Mr. Biggy stated that he had been offered a large sum of money to join a certain combine to defend certain measures.

On being asked who were in the combine he replied:

"I don't want to know," said he. "I accuse no man on the floor of the Hcuse but one man, and that is the man who asked me to go in."

This caused a tremendous hubbub, and during it a vote on the last amendment was taken. Several Senators who had been voting against all the amendment was taken. Several Senators who had been voting against all the amendments changed about, and Mr. Biggy's amendment was adopted by a vote of 28 yeas to 10 nays. The vote is as follows:

Yeas—Aram, Arms, Beard, Bert, Biggy, Burke, Earl, Fay, Flink, Ford, Franck, Gesford, Gleaves, Holloway, Hoyt, Martin, McGesford, Gleaves, Holloway, Bert, Biggy, Burke, Fay, Holloway, Langford, Mathews, McAllister, McGowan, Drr. Pedlar, Shine, Shippee, Simpson, Smith, Voorhels, Whitehurst and Withington—28.

A bill passed appropriating $25,000 for a

At the evening session Mr. Arms of the following resolution.

It was adopted with but little comment,
Senator Biggy agreeing and accepting

Senator Biggy agreeing and accepting fully the language attributed to him in the resolution:

"Whereas, Senator Biggy, on this day Senate wherein accusations were mad against certain unnamed Senators as be against certain unnamed Senators as being in a combine, and, whereas, at use of the following language which reflects upon the honor, integrity and dignity of this Senate: Twe years ago I came here from San Francisce into this body as a Senator. I have tried to do my duty in this Senate, both in this

I defy anyone to say anything to the contrary. At the last session of the Legislature I had not been here more than a week when I was offered $7000 to stand in with a combination for everything there was. This bination for everything there was. I session I was again offered on the fleor this Senate, the same proposition, but sum was $8000, which I refused, and prove my accusation. I believe I was to take part in every cinch bill that was in troduced at this session. Last night there troduced at this session. Last night there were two of them knocked out. There were other bills, among them the water gas and telephone bills and others l were two of them knocked out. There were other bills, among them the water. gas and telephone bills and others I could mention if I so desired. It was understood the railroad was to settle with me when I went to San Francisco after I had left here at the end of the session. Two years ago I did not get that far. I did not mean to strike at all. I mention no names. The railroad came up here to try and repeal an act that session. I could not stoop to anything and I would not if I could. Now, I am not afraid of resigning my seat, and I stand before my people in the State of California in defense of the interests of San Francisco. I believe I have said everything. I do not know any name in that combination and I do not want to know. I could not stoop to anything of this kind, or I would not if I could. I say this without fear or favor. I accuse no man in this Senate of being in that combination except one man, and that is the one who asked me, and, whereas, said statements are of such a character as to cause widespread notoriety and to lead the people

The charges made by Senator Biggr are the sensation of the day among all the legislators. The investigation promises rich deviopments.

It is an excellent committee. I could not ask for a better. I only wish Senator Gesford could have been on it also."

Senator Dunn when seen expressed surprise at the charges made by Biggy, denounced them as wholly false and said he would demand a personal explanation.

"I have never joined in any combine nor promised Mr. Biggy any money. As for record, my record is as good as his, and I court the fullest investigation."

He was found in a room in the rear of his shop by Officers Long and Lennon, who telephoned for the patrol wagon. While on the way to the Police Station he cailed for poison, and at the Receiving Hospital asked that something be given him to make him die.

The bullet, which had been discharged from a 32-caliber revolver, had entered the under side of his chin and had apparently lodged somewhere behind the mose. Police Surgeon Bryant dressed the wound. Dr. Bryant stated that the man would probably recover unless the bullet should make trouble from where it had lodged.

Monnett is quite well known about town He was divorced from his wife five or six years ago. He had no children. Since his divorce he has, it is said, been known to associate more or less with women of a low class, and it is supposed this fact led to his attempt to take his own life. BUSINESS

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
LOS AN IELES, March 12, 1895.
A copy of the bill creating a board of bank commissioners, to which reference has previously been made, has been received. It is an error to suppose that this bill was not designed by the bankers themselves. The fact is that the bill emanated from leading bankers of Los Angeles and elsewhere, who recognized the fact that while are unsound bank is an occasional danger to a few members of the general public it is a perpetual menace to all the banks which are brought into daily connection with it.

casional danger to a few members of the general public it is a perpetual menace to all the banks which are brought into daily connection with It.

So far the Board of Bank Commissioners has been something in the nature of a solemn farce. Nominally they had powers, but these powers would not stand the test. A striking example of this fact was furnished in the case of the People's Home and the Pacific Bank of San Francisco, when all the commissioners could do was to refer the matter at issue to the Attorney-General, who found everything in apple-pie order.

Under the new law the Bank Commissioners are given powers which are real. Among the reforms is that which enables the commissioners to call for a report of a bank at unexpected times, not merely at the stated periods when banks have everything repared to make a good showing. Another good fracture is the section which provides that no bank shall be incorporated in any town of 6000 inhabitants or under, with a capital stock of less than $25,000 or in towns and cities of larger population in proportion, of which sums at least 50 per cent must actually be paid up. This will do away with so-called banks which start with $100,000 capital, of which $15,000 is subscritted and $1.50 actually paid in (for postage, stamps, etc.) Finally, there is one excellent section which will prove to be a knock-out blow to those institutions which cell themselves banks but are in reality nottling but pawnbroking establishments. This section provides that "the word savings, alone or in connection with thuse for the word bank or any other word or terms denoting or implying the conduct of the business of banking, or the use of the word savings, alone or in connection. It takes a person of awerage intelligence at least two years to become informed regarding the relations between the various banks, and, consequently, to be of use.

Some of the orange-growers appear to ear that there may be a "slump" in the market because there has been some fall-ing off in the demand for lower-priced oranges, which was recently met by a re-duction made by the exglanges of 10 cents a box in the price of seedlings. cents a box in the price of seedlings.

There is not foundation for such anxiety. The prospects are that there is more likely to be an advance than a drop in the price of first-case oranges before the end of the season.

The Harbor Commissioners of San Francisco are much worried over the inroads which are being made into piling by the teredo. Few people have any conception of the amount of damage which is done by this little insect. It is stated that it oy and shows meet. It is stated that is costs the Board of Harbor Commissioners $50,000 a year for repairs only; that is for replacing piles that have been damaged by the teredo with sound ones. The average life of a pile is only three years. Many life of a pile is only three years. Many varieties of covering for the piles have been tried, but the teredo gets there all the same. There are at Washington over 1000 patcint devices for dealing with the worm. The commissioners are now experimenting with a pile which is built on a new plann, and it is believed may possibly solve the question. The theory underlying the construction of these piles is the fact that a teredo will not cross a seam, and one teredo will never burrow in the same hole as another. This particular pile has a central core of uniform thickness and one teredo will never burrow in the same hove as another. This particular pile has a central core of uniform thickness and round it layers of timber are built with overdapping joints, and some kind of composition is put between each layer. The remarkable statement is made that the tereio costs the United States as much as the navy. The Examiner makes the following; statement in this connection: "The State owns now over sixty acres of wharves, and as fast as they are repaired in one part the busy, headless, legiess, diminutus worm is undermining them. The teredo, after he once commences to eat, never stops until he breaks into the cell of one of his fellows or he breaks down the whole structure about his feeding ground. There is a fortune awaiting the man who can offer the governments of the world a protecyon against the teredo. Perhaps the discovery has already been made, or at any rette the next best thing to it."

The fact has been frequently published in the press the threats a warriers of the

any rate the next best thing to it."
The fact has been frequently published in the press that there is a variety of the Australian eucalyptus or gum-tree which is tervalo-proof and is utilized for the purpose of piling in Australia. If this is true it is cartainly remarkable, in view of the damseys that is done by this insect, as above stated, that such allerhan is conit is extrainly remarkable, in view of the demage; that is done by this insect, as above stated, that such timber is not largely cultivated throughout this section where it thrives so well. The Southern Pacific Company could make money by satting out this variety of eucalyptus all allong its lines and every farmer should have a row of the trees around this place. The Times has published a good deal of interest of the subject of the eucalyptus globulus, or blue gum, which is the common variety used for fuel. There are, however, as stated, a number of other varieties of this tree which in Australia are held in greenby esteem than the blue gum and utifiesed for a great many purposes, such in the manufacture of furniture. Although the eucalyptus has now been cultivaded in California for a quarter of a century, it appears that we are only just commencing to realize the value of the stree as a commercial crop.

As will be remembered by those who wave here then that when the disposition of the sewage of Los Angeles was being discussed The Times made a strong and protracted fight in favor of the utilization of such sewage on the sandy lands adjacent or near to the city. There was much opposition to the plan at the time, many persons holding that the sewage would be a great nuisance which would not be tolerated by people in the neighborhood, and this in spite of the fact that sewage has been used in this manner for many years in various parts of the world. Others predicted that it would not be possible to find people to take the sewage and that the city would find itself with a "white elephant" on its bands. The falsity of these ideas has been fully proved by the record of the outfall sewer. It is not much of an "outfall" sewer as far as running the water into the ocean is concerned, for the reason that the demand for the esswage for irrigation purposes is greater than the supply. It is expected that as soon as a few unimportant changes have been made in the sewer will be 448 per diem, which is equivalent to 5 per cent, on its cost—3356,000. This is a most suthfactory showing and justifies what was said at the time in regard to the importance of utilizing the sewage. It may fairly be expected that before many years the income of the city from the sewage will be one of its most important sources of revenue.

Articles of incorporation were filed with fine County Clerk yesterday by the follow-ang new companies: Arcade Mill Company of this city, formed for the purpose of buying, selling, manufacturing and dealing in lumber and lum facturing and dealing in lumber and lumber materials of every kind, etc. Capital stock, $30,000; fully paid up. Board of directors, C. A. Dillin, John I. Dillin, W. H. Soott, W. H. Dillin and Amelia Scott. Farmers' Alliance Mercantile Company of Southern California, formed for the purpose of carrying on a general mercantile business, including groceries, fuel, provisions, and selling on commission such goods, wares and merchandise as may be consigned to it by individuals or corporations. Capital stock, $50,000; actually subscribed, $1020. Board of directors, A. J. Utley, A. P. Miller, R. E. Curran, E. M. Hamilton and G. W. Savory.

For the benefit of a superheated correspondent who writes from Pasadena, it may be well to state that no evidence has been adduced to show that John A. Hamilton, who recently committed suicide at Denver, was blacklisted." But if it were shown conclusively that Mr. Hamilton had been refused employment by certain railroad companies because he had proved unfaithful to a trust reposed in him, what then? Should a laborer be compelled to work for an employer who had maltreated or broken faith with him? Should he be restrained from informing other laborers of the perfidy of his employer? And, conversely, is an employer under any obligations to re-employ a man who has proved unfaithful? And is not employer justified in informing other employers of such unfaithfulness, in order that they may protect themselves? To ask these questions is to answer them. It is a rule that works both ways, and is practiced quite as often by employees (organ unorganized) as by employers. That such expedients are resorted to-that any necessity for them exists-is to be deplored. But this necessity appears to be one of hard conditions of the warfare which "organized" labor insists shall be waged against its employers. The soldier who deserts his post of duty at a critical time is not eligible for restoration to the ranks with full honors. If he be accorded such re instatement, instead of being shot, there is danger that he will again be tray his trust. If he be refused, no odium can properly attach to the commanding officer or to the court-mar tial, who have merely enforced the military law in such cases made and provided. Fidelity in any line of effort is entitled to full rewards and honors. Faithlessness cannot in all

The continued ill-health of Lord Rosebery makes it probable that he will resign the British premiership in the near future. His resignation would no doubt lead to a dissolution of Parliament, with the probable loss of con trol by the Liberals and the accession to power of the Conservatives unde e leadership of Salisbury and Balfour. These events may have an important bearing upon the bimetallic question. Balfour has recently expressed himself as favorably disposed toward a fuller recognition of silver, and Salisbury is represented as not being antagonistic to bimetallism, though somewhat doubtful as to its expediency at the present juncture. If England will make certain conces sions in favor of silver the problem before the proposed international conference will be much simplified.

A bill is pending in the New York Legislature providing that the tires of all vehicles carrying a ton or more shall be not less than four inches wide. The provision is a good one Wide tires are not much more costly than narrow ones, and are vastly better for all kinds of roads. They act as a heavy roller, preventing ruts and ding to make the roadbed smooth and hard, whereas narrow tires cut it up into ruts and hollows, rendering intry roads almost impassable at times. The wear and tear on vehicles as well as on roadbeds is much greater because of narrow tires. It is surprising that the narrow tire has greater because of narrow tires. It is surprising that the narrow tire has survived so long when the disadvaninges of its use are so obvious. Legislation against it is legislation well directed.

There is strong opposition to the scheme to abolish the State Board of Horticulture and turn its work over to the State University. This board has certainly accomplished a great deal of good in the past in the way of scientific investigation and experiment. Horticulture is one of the leading industries of California and is entitled to the fullest recognition as such. The annual expense of the State Board of Horticulture has been a matter of some $15,000 per year, which is certainly not excessive as compared to the work it has accomplished.

There are some kinds of superficial economy which are the wildest kind of extravagance.

The riot which occurred Monday in the Indiana Legislature was a most disgraceful affair. Doubtless both sides were more or less in the wrong. Certainly the scenes of violence which occurred were unjustifiable from any point of view. But it evident from the reports of the affair that the Governor attempted to bunco the Republicans of the Legislature by sending in a veto message at the last moment before final adjournment, so as to allow no time to pass the measure in controversy over his veto. In this attempted piece of sharp practice the Governor had the support of the Democratic members. Resistance to this nefarious scheme precipitated the riot. The Republicans can hardly be blamed for resisting so contemptible a trick to the last extremity. Yet it would seem that they might have devised some plan of resistance more in ac cord with parliamentary usage than the smashing of furniture, the flourishing of revolvers and the breaking of noses and heads.

Senator Biggy of San Francisco stirred up a big sensation in the Sen-ate yesterday by declaring that he been offered $8,000 to "stand in with the combine" and vote for cer-tain measures, one of which was the bill then under consideration, amend ing the law relative to the street railways of San Francisco. The legisla tive session is so near its end, only two days remaining, that Senator Biggy's charge will not be investigated. This is to be regretted. If corrupt work of this kind has been going on in the Legislature it ought to be uncovered.

The points chiefly relied upon in the suits recently brought in New York to test the validity of the income tax law are: First, that the income tax is a direct tax, and must therefore be apportioned among the States according to populations and second, that the law violates the provision of the Constitution which requires all impos and excise taxes to be uniform throughout the United States. A decision from the Supreme Court of the United States, within the next few days, is expected.

The constitutional convention cently held in Utah made a good beginning by adopting the following resolution:

A PSYCHIC TANGLE.

Express Libel Suit Tending to Hallucinations.

Circumstances in "Conjunction" for Eliciting Lore of Bygone Time.

Dragging its Weary Length Along, the Day Was Relieved by a Wit-ness Who is Runningmate to Plaintiff.

Yesterday the dilettante investigators phenomena were entertained in Judge McKinley's courtroom by further libel suit against the Evening Express

The court, in its personal as well as judicial capacity, is not well versed in the occult lines of thought, to judge from a re-mark made during the day, but while the court—as a court—seemed at times to be made a trifle weary by the amount of utter, rot—as it appeared to an ordinary ob-server—Judge McKinley, in his own per-sonality, unbent his dignity so far as to join in the laugh which the recondite knowledge of one witness provoked.

The jury had apparently recovered from the effects of the mass of literature—if it can be termed such—hurled at them on Saturday, and like so many prize-fighters Saturday, and like so many prize-fighters came up smiling yesterday morning. One by one, however, their interest waned, if a weary look and a negligent attitude can be interpreted in such manner, and the coup de grace was delivered when a learned inquiry was begun into the meaning of such terms as psychometry, psychomancy, soothsaying, etc. It was all Greek to them, and as the Greek desivations were gone into most, if not all of them, seemed to suffer, to use a common expression, a pain in the epigastric region.

H. Z. Osborne, president of the Evening Express Company, resumed his seat on the pain in the epigastric region.

H. Z. Osborne, president of the Evening Express Company, resumed his seat on the witness stand and testified that at the time of the alleged libel, prior to the time when the tidal wave was billed to make its first and only appearance in Los Angeles, the directors of the company were E. R. Cleveland, J. Mills Davies, Lester Osborne, J. W. Elliott and himself. He knew the plaintiff at that time was a widely-known character and had an extensive acquaintance among public men.

Mer Osborne was examined at length as to the publication of the alleged libelous article, and the means be used to verify the statements made to him. "On the 15th of August, 1894," said the witness, "I received a dispatch from Denver from a newspaper man of repute named Wood, stating that a young lady of this city had left her home here in a manner to excite interest and inquiring if I desired particulars. I wired him to send 200 or 300 words. When the dispatch arrived I directed my subordinates to write the story affiter verifying the facts, but to make such presentation of the case as would give the plaintiff as little unpleasant notoriety as possible. I had no feeling save that of goodwill toward 'Col' Duncan then; I always liked him, and do now personally. Several people spoke to me concerning certain publications written by the colonel that of goodwill toward 'Col' Duncan then; I always liked him, and do now personally. Several people spoke to me concerning certain publications written by the colonel on the Falb predictions and printed in my paper, and advised me to curtail his articles as people were becoming frightened. After the colonel commenced this suit I had a conversation with him. He said he had no unkind feelings toward me, and if I would give him the name of the man who had written the article so he could bring a criminal action against. him, he would dismiss this action. I told him that I was responsible and that I could not permit employees to suffer for acts which they were employed to perform."

Mr. Coborne at some length gave details regarding the inquiry set on foot to verify the facts of the story, after which Mr. Gage went through a large portion of the article in dispute phrase by phrase. Plaintiff's counsel expressed a desire to lie back until this line of examination was concluded, and then make a kind of wholesale motion, so to speak, that all this testimony be stricken out. The court decided that the ordinary rule should apply, however, and objection be made to each question when it could be decided at once on its merits.

The learned plaintiff had during the examination occupied himself with a perusal of the multitudinous array of documents contained in the straw grip which stood on the table before him, but at this point on the table before him, but at this permit he ventured to raise his voice in remonstrance against the court overruling the objection of his coursel to the introduction of testimony. After alving his eloquence, Judge McKinley intimated there was nothing her the course he have been always and the course her course her the course her than the course her the course h ng before the court, so he sat down. Little additional light was thrown on the transaction by the cross-examination. Attorney Brunson began by inquiring: "What pride could the proprietors of the Express have, or do you suppose "Col," Duncan would have, in regarding this adventure as a literary suppose."

"I believe the colonel would take more pride in it than I would. The articles were powerful and convincing—to certain were powerful and convining to terrain-minds."

The plaintiff then tried his hand at cross-examining the witness. He was not a shiring success. Commencing with the Denver telegram he again covered the ground already gone over. It appeared to be his desire to obtain an admission from witness that he himself acquiesced in the wild-eyed theories of the plaintiff, and asked whether he had not published later arbicles indorsing the theories of Falb. The court interposed, stating that it did not matter if he had, it cut no figure in the case.

"Explan the meaning of the following words used by you: Psychometry, seers, auguries, soothsayer, etc."

"All at once?" inquired witness somewhat overcome by the heavy contract placed upon him.

"No, one after the other," considerately answered plaintiff.

"There are enough dictionaries on the table if you want to find the meanings," remarked Judge McKinley, and the witness was saved.

Plaintiff desired to know if the appellation "Col. Duncan, Esq.," used by the Express on the day in question, was not used in derision.

"No, my instructions were that "Col." Duncan should be dealt as kindly with as the facts would permit."

"Do I understand that you object to the title of "colonel?" inquired Mr. Gage.

Plaintiff became slightly red in the face as we answered: "Don't ask me any questions. I'm not on the witness stand," and with a grandiloqu ent wave of his hand he subsided for the time being.

Upon Mr. Gage interpraing an objection shortly after to a quisation involving a grandilogular construction, on the ground that witness was not a candidate for admission to practice before the courts, the plaintiff again waxed her.

"May it please the courts, the plaintiff again waxed her.

ON LECTURING.

This little spat had no sconer quieted down than the word "lecturing," as applied to the witness, came up. It was unfortunate, but it bobbed up all the same, upon which the court remarked that "under certain circumstaraces lecturing is very necessary." The viords had scarcely died away when the "circumstances were in confunction."

"I will lecture you now, colonel," remarked the court, "if you don't adopt a method more in accord with legal procedure."

method more in accord with legal procedure."

"I will accept a letture from Your Honor," exclaimed the plaintiff, and court adjourning he went to luncheon to digest it.

Upon reconvening in the afternoon the plaintiff hawked back to the article pullished in the Express. He expressed an overwhelming desire to know how many of the Express readers understood the terms used in the articles: "Learned theses," "psychology," "psychomachy," and other terms. That done he wished to retire the witness temporarily, but Mr. Gage urged that the witness be examined. "Yes, we'll exhaust the judge and jury and the witness at the same time," conceded the plaintiff and he beamed benignly on all around.

ceded the plaintiff and he beamed benignly on all around.

GREEK MEETING GREEK.

When J. Le Veen, city editor of the Express, took the stand the air in the courtroom became slightly lurish. He proved to be a most willing witness—too willing, indeed, for Attorney Brunson. Mr. Gage simply asked the witness if he bore any fill-will to plaintiff, and then passed him over for cross-examination. Attorney Brunson inquired if he was the writer of the much-debated article, upon which witness answered that he was. To use a vulgarism, "the fat was in the fire." Mr. Gage contended that as they had gone outside legitimate cross-examination he would go into the matter at length on redirect. In answer to Mr. Gage's interrogatories witness stated that Mr. Floyd, the father of the young lady who ran away, gave the entire story in such minute detail that for the time being there was nothing left to investigate until the girl returned, when she was interviewed. Upon being asked what Mr. Floyd said about the writer of the prophetical articles witness replied that he stated he had no use for prophets who went about scaring people qut of their wits. "I think said widless, "that he would have dropped metaplior and taken to pugilism if he had met the author—"
"Stop, sir! shouted the plaintiff. "Don't tell what you think," severely added his counsel.

Silenced for the time, but unsubdued, the witness gave a most lucid explanation of how the plaintiff came to be spoken of in the disputed article as "Col. Blanton Duncan. Esq. "In Missouri, and indeed throughout the West," he remarked, "it is quite common to so distinguish a mian when he is entitled to a military as well as a civil title."

Attorney Brunson had been very eager before the witness spoke that he should not be permitted to explain this knotty point. The court decided he would permit the question and answer and then rule. "I will now hear a motion to a military as well as a civil title."

Attorney Brunson had been very eager before the witness spoke that he should not be permi GREEK MEETING GREEK.

CONFESSION OF A WITTGESS.

Upon re-cross-examination Atterney Brunson proceeded with an air approach-ing almost to solemnity to intercogate the witness. The witness, however, would not be subdued. With airy cheerfulness he volunteered a mass of information every time a question was part. He con-fessed he had lived in Missouri for about ressed he had nived he leight years.

"And did you think, sir, you were in missouri when you wrote that article."

"Oh, dear, no; I had thought transfer."

"Do you mean to say that writing 'Col "Not rhetorical literature. And then what might be construed as a mistake might be a lapsus linguae—or, I beg your pardon, a lapsus primes."

"Do you claim it was a lapsus piumae?"
"Oh, no, it was on the typewritter and I don't know the Latin for that."
Witness conceded that no man in writing is absolutely correct, literally speaking, and as for using a "fore and aft" title that altogether depended on his frame of mind at the time he wrote. "All writers," said he, "are supposed to be I terary, even though they be liliterate. In England, and even in New York—"
Attorney Brunson objected to the redundancy of the witness's, answer. If n. Le Veen, however, claimed his right to quality any answer he might make by explaination, and the rule of law was allowed.

He took advantage of it.
"I want to go back," said he, "to show how I acquired the reprehensible hubit of giving a man a double title. For instance a man may be in the House of Cominons—a military man, and while retaining the prefix may have after his name 'F &R.S.' indicating he is a 'Fellow of the Royal Society.'"

"Do you claim it was a lapsus plumae
"Oh, no, it was on the typewriter and indicating he is a 'Fellow of the Royal Society.'

Being asked if "Col." Duncan belonged to the Royal Society, witness was quite emphatic in venturing the opinion that he does not. Some further "sparring" took place between counsel and witness when an appeal was made to the court. Judge McKinley, while giving Attorney Brunsor credit for some pungent emarks, added that witness had given the opportunity, and so honors were even. The counsel stated that he had never browbeat in a witness, and would not be browbeaten by one.

MAL D'OCCHIO AGAIN.

witness, and would not be browbested by one.

MAL D'OCCHIO AGAIN.

"You speak of 'Mal d'Occhio' as being 'occult' and 'abstruse.' Did you ever hear 'Col.' Duncan speak of such things?"

"Yes, he told me personally that there were certain coincidences in themselves inexplicable, and psychological manifestations perfectly unexplainable, and that means occult or hidden things. Then he spoke of a whole lot of folks who had gone over to the other shore through exmipg in contact with him."

In seeking to draw from witness en accurate definition of psychomancy, etc., a hopeless state of mental paralyzation was induced in the minds of most of those in the courtroom. Mr. Le Veen has evidently learned something by contact with the plaintiff, for he "reeled" off the jargon of the esoteric sciences with perfect freedom if not altogether perfect accuracy. The well-thumbed Greek lexicon was dragged out into the middle of the table for counsel to keep tab on the definitions and then the witness began. First giving the Greek derivative, he took a fall out of the lexicographer, who had not been accurate enough, and too narrow. Speaking of "contention with the soul" as the basic idea, he dragged hoary, old "lato from his grave, and after giving his bones a rattle, queted Herbert Spencer and Tyndall as authorities to sustain him in his position. Starting at a wild canter he got enthused and finished at a hard gallop, while the jury lay back and fanned themselves, and the spectators rushed for relief to the water-conjet, and swallowed draughts of icewater.

TOUGH ON THE COURT.

TOUGH ON THE COURT. Attorney Brunson didn't exactly follow the witness, for he started off again. This time he chased the mysterious oracle of Delphi, and with minute elaboration gave Attorney Brunson objected to witness's definition that "all science is based on past experiences," and so the irrepressible witness started off for the third time to prove he was right. This time he trotted out. Tyndail and Sir Isaac Newton, but he hadn't proceeded far when the court interposed, upon an objection being levelled at witness. "I don't think," said Judge McKinley, "we've had any witness so likely to understand 'Col.' Duncan as this one."

The witness looked complacent.
"I have by me here." began Attorney Brunson, "a word on "humidity of human bodies—"
"You've got hold of the wrong word, Judgs," good-humoredly volunteered the witness, and sure enough he had. Again the, lexicon was brought into requisition. "I hope if Mr. Brunson is wrong he'll apologize to the witness," said Mr. Gage. Attorney Brunson bent low over the lexicon.

"I object to counsel's reading from the dictionary or the Bible," again interposed Mr. Gage.

"I don't suppose it would have had any effect on either of you," somewhat despairingly added the court.

Resuming, Attorney Brunson, upon putting a simple question, was met with an Illustrative answer. Witness instanced certain basic acids and their operation, strayed away after alkalies and was only choked off and brought to severely mundane affairs by emphatic protest.

Throughout the examination the bar, jury and spectators had been convulsed, and when the witness left the stand he might have the satisfaction of knowing that on many point raised during the case he had so complicated them that, while before there had appeared just a glimmering of reason, they appeared just as clear as blue mud.

For about half an hour the plaintiff examined Messrs. Cleveland, Elliott and Lester Osborne as to any ill-feeling they had toward him, and then adjournment was taken until this morning.

THE CHINESE WILL COME TO THE SHOW IF-

A Meeting Yesterday at the China town Board of Trade—A Novel Railroad Exhibit is

It was practically settled yesterday at ternoon that the Chinese will participate in the flesta, and the decision causes much gratification in flesta circles. At 2:30 o'clock a delegation of merchants and fiesta committee met the leading Chinese merchants at their Board of Trade room on North Los Angeles street, and bad a interesting conference with them.

Newmark, R. W. Pridham, F. K. Rule, Charles Waiton and Charles Sloan, of the fiesta committees, were present, and all made brief speeches to the grave and courteous Chinese merchants. The latter heard all before replying, in accordance with their custom.

The remarks on the part of the delegation were begun by Capt. Steere, who alluded to the participation of the Chinese in last year's fiesta in complimentary terms and urged them to repeat their success this year. They could do nothing that would tend to bring about a better understanding of their race and greater harmony with the American people than by assisting their American neighbors to make the fiesta a brilliant success. Nowhere in the country could such a display be made so well, and he felt that the fiesta could not do without them.

Director-General Meyberg followed in a few remarks, of like nature, assuring the Chinese merchants that their co-operation would be appreciated and that if they did not take part it would be a distinct loss to the celebration and make the merchants feel that in some way they had not done their part in last year's proceedings.

President Koepfis and that he would repeat again what he had said at the former meeting, that the Chinese must take part it would be a good thing in the fiesta. It would be a good thing in the fiesta.

peat again what he had said at a few former meeting, that the Chinese must take part in the fiesta. It would be a good thing for them and a good thing for them and a good thing for the fiesta, and he hoped to receive the answer of yes before they left, to the question as to their Remarks showing the deep interest of the people in having the Chinese do their part were also made by Mr. Eiser and Mr. Salkey.

Mr. Crawley in his remarks referred to the convention of ticket agents held in Los Angeles last year, and to the expressions of delight with which they had seen the Chinese display. He had informed those gentlemen that the Chinese merchants were enterprising and progressive and were enterprising and progressive and had the welfare of Los Angeles as much at heart as the American merchants. He hoped to be able to say the same this year, and that they would make even a grander display:

Mr. Rule likened the flesta to a table, one of the legs of which represented the American merchants, another manufacturers, a third capitalists and the fourth the Chinese merchants. If the Chinese leg was cut off it would mar the whole structure.

ers, a third capitalists and the fourth the Chinese merchants. If the Chinese leg was cut off it would mar the whole structure.

In speaking of the parades Mr. Pridham, chairman of the Parade Committee, assured the Chinese merchants that they would be given a prominent position. The flesta parades - represented a chain of many links. One of these links was the Chinese, and if it was left out it would destroy the beauty of the celebration.

Charles Walton told the courteous, but sphynx-like Chinese that he believed they now had an opportunity to bring about greater harmony between their race and the American people. In no other city were the conditions so favorable to the Chinese as in Los Angeles, and they had a chance to strike a blow for all their people by assisting their American fellow-merchants in the celebration.

Mr. Sloan said that after last year's celebration he, had visited many Eastern cities and no one event of the flesta had attracted so much attention and interest as the Chinese display.

After the talk Mr. Newmank asked for an expression from the Board of Trade, and its president through Chang, the interpreter, who had interpreted all the speeches to them, replied that they were now arranging a plan by which they hoped to take part in the flesta. They had been delayed by the failure to get certain maerials and as soon as that was brought about they would let the merchants know. They trusted it would be sent to them.

Alhough there is no definite settlement of the flesta managers could be of any assistance to them they replied that if they could, word would be sent to them.

Alhough there is no definite settlement of the matter it is regarded as practically determined that the Chinese will participate in the flesta.

There will be no test of vocal fitness other than familiarity with the choruses to be sung. FIESTA NOTES.

There have already been a number of entries for the races at Agricultural Park beginning Saturday previous to flesta week and continuing during flesta week. Arrangements are being made with the Southern Pacific looking to the running of trains from the Arcade Depot to the park during the week, and information from San Francisco indicates that a number of the best strings of theBay District will be on hand. Ben Benjamin, who will officiate as handicapper, will arrive from San Francisco tomorrow. Horsemen look favorably upon participation in some of the flesta street pageants.

Yesterday a delegation from the University of Southern California called upon Chairman Pridham of the Parade Committee, to make arrangements for taking part in the parades. The boys are enthusiastic for La Fiesta, and propose to make a striking display. They have not yet worked out their plans in detail, but expect to have a characteristic float and turn out in force.

It has been determined by the employees of the Southern Pacific Company in the car shops in Los Angeles to arrange a very striking display for the flesta. They will do the work themselves out of time and it will be their own very effective contribution to the celebration. In general their design may be stated to be an illustration of the old methods of travel in this country and the present. The prairie schooner will be contrasted with a modern seleping-car with all the modern equipments. They are going to have an up-to-date display that will be very fine, and will be one of the most noticeable in the street pageants of the entire week.

noticeable in the street pageants of the entire week.

Messrs. Deakin and Dr. Brown of San Pedro were in the city yesterday in consultation with the Southern California Committee with reference to floats for the flesta. The San Pedro committee has decided to introduce two and possibly three floats in the parades. One of them will illustrate the present and future San Pedro harbor, another will be a characteristic seaport town scene, possibly presenting a full-rigged barque, while there may be a third float for the floral parade. The San Pedro folks are enthusiastic and their display will be very handsome.

"Miss Bertoldi is a contortionist, acrobat and strong mademoiselle, and intended to give a private exhibition before women doctors and newspaper women nonly, but three men physicians were present, and so she appeared at first in a black silk suit which sne wears during her performances.

"Miss Bertoldi is very young, ladylike, on't like to see women smoke, does wear corsets and is considered by doctors before whom she has appeared as altogether a most extraordinary young woman. The doctors who were present said so, and they plied her with enough questions to scare a Lexow investigating committee witness into paralysis.

TRIED TO CATCH HER.

"There was one physician who, every time she rolled herself into a bedl or did other feats that she doesn't show the public, would try to make her confess she was tired or that it hurt her.

"I don't do a single thing that hurts me,' aughed-Miss Bertoldi.

"Then she simply laid her hand on a table and carefully reised her beels in the air. By the way, when she got them up there somebody asked her what size they were, and while she proceeded to curl them over toward her face, she said, 'No. 3.'

IT AMUSES HER. TRIED TO CATCH HER.

"Then ahe brought her whole weight down on her chin and literally stood on it while a newspaper woman said, 'Aren't you dizzy?' The lady on the table simply let her weight back onto her chest, turned her hoad smilingly with 'Not at all. It amuses me.'

"The doctors couldn't find that the heart action was disturbed, and the fact of it was that the exertion to her wasn't half what it is to an ordinary young woman when she chases a horse car or stumbles onto a cable car.

"She is hardly 5 feet tall, weights about 100 pounds, and 'Here,' said she, slipping out of the loose satin waist she wore, 'is where the strength is in me.' "The case with which she did all this, and the fact that the blood did not rush to the head, while she was, much the coolest person in the room in spite of the exertion, proved that her joints and muscles are in a natural state that makes contortion almost natural. Miss Bertoldi herself says she enjoys it just as other girls like tennis and fencing.

"The feat shown in the illustration is one of her most wonderful, for all her weight is thrown on her front teeth.

"I never had an unsound tooth in my life,' and she shows the firmest-looking, most compact set of upper teeth. It really seems as if they must be iron, coated with enamel, to stand all that, but they are her own.

"When you see Miss Bertoldi just look at that chin. It is so firm and hard that when she hits anybody with it at all hard it makes them cry."

Laundry Wagon.

Rosario Niosi, 64 years old, living at No. 550 San Pedro street, was hit by a laundry wagon yesterday noon at the corner of Second street and Mott alley. He was thrown to the ground and when picked up by bystanders he was found to be badly injured, and was taken to his home.

Dr. C. W. Bryson was called and on examination he found that the pateils of the injured right leg had sustained what is technically known as a "comminuted" fracture, that is, it was broken into a number of pieces. Dr. Bryson, assisted by Drs. Stewart and Newkirk, operated on the fractured bone by laying it bare and drilling holes in the pieces of bone. The pieces were then joined or wired together with kangaroo tendon, which will hold for a long time, but which will finally be absorbed into the system.

It is stated that the prospect is there will be a good union between the pieces of bone.

PROPOSED IMPROVEMENT FOR OUT-FALL SEWER IRRIGATION.

FALL SEWER IRRIGATION.

Chief Deputy Lownes of the City Engineer's office went to Inglewood yesterday to make an examination in the matter of the proposed construction of a weir in the chamber of the outfall sewer where the same connects with the lateral conduit through which sewage is to be run to the Howard and Bixby ranch.

At the place in question there are two chambers in the sewer. One of these discharges sewage into the other, which is a number of feet below. When sewage is diverted from the upper chamber into the Howard & Bixby lateral the passage between the two chambers is closed.

Under such circumstances there is danger of the water backing up in the upper chamber sufficiently to do damage, and in order to prevent such damage it is proposed to erect a wall at a proper height in the upper chamber so as to divide it. If the sewage backs up sufficiently it will run over the weir or dividing wall and prevent damage from being done.

"It is a good home for good, men and good women," said the speaker. "The order of Odd Fellows is now an essential element of our civilization. It meets a demand as a great fraternity. It brings men together and unites them in the bonds of love. It teaches the true and lofty principles of the mass-common. It teaches that God is our father and all men are brethren. It is a friend of good citizenship under every flag and in every nation. Its banner is not lifted up against any country. In the United States it is proud of the Stars and Stripes of America and it is loyal in all countries under whose flag it holds its charter. It wants the flag of the nation under which it lives placed upon the schoolhouses and lodge buildings. The principles of Odd Fellowship are broader than any human creed, and its work is practical. It visits and cares for the sick, comforts the widow and orphan and with loving and tender hands buries the dead.

"The order is now making permanent arrangements to stay. It has passed the period of doubt and is a permanent factor in our civilization. MRS. O'HARA.

Her Examination on a Charge of Murder.

The Evidence Does not Yet Show Who Poisoned Johnnie Henderson.

Shaking the Testimony of a Lad-The Complaining Witness Was Severely Rebuked by the Court.

The preliminary examination into the case against Mrs. Elizabeth O'Hara, the old lady charged with the murder of little nine-year-old Johnny Henderson in East Los Angeles on March 6 last, was commenced before Justice Young in the Township Court vesterday. Assistant District menced before Justice Young in the Township Court yeaterday. Assistant District Attorney W. T. Williams appeared on behalf of the State, while the defendant was represented by Messrs. Davis and Rush.

Such was the interest manifested in the case that at 10 o'clock, the hour at which it was set for hearing, even standing room was at a premium in the courtroom on the top floor of the Courthouse. Justice Young being engaged with the trial of a civil suit, however, the matter went over until 2 o'clock p.m.

At that hour the courtroom was again crowded to a degree of discomfort, fully one-half of the spectators present being women.

When the case was called the defense insisted upon the enforcement of the rule with reference to the exclusion of witnesses, so that only the defendant and complainant, of the persons directly interested, were permitted to hear what the witnesses testified.

with reference to the exclusion of witnesses, so that only the defendant and complainant, of the persons directly interested, were permitted to hear what the witnesses testified.

The proceedings commenced with the examination of little Eddie Strange, who testified that he was 9 years of age years and resided with his parents at No. 1418 Hawkins street. In response to the questions put to him by the Prosecuting Attorney the boy stated that on the aftermoon of March 6 last he, little Johnny Henderson and Walter McGee went to Mrs. O'Hara's house to borrow a sickle with which to cut grass on the vacant lot in front of her house. Johnny Henderson and the other boy remained in the alley, while he went to the back door and linto the house. Mrs. O'Hara was lying down on the bed lounge in the kitchen, but on learning what her little visitor wanted she got up and taking the sickle down from the chimney shelf banded it to him. As he went out with it his little sister. Stella, came in, and he and Johnny waited for her in the alley. She had a small paper bag in her hand, and, boy-like, Eddie asked her what she had in it. She replied that there were some cookies in it, and proceeded to give him two of them and Johnny one, retaining the two which were left for herself. She then went home, and he and Johnny hurriedly ate their cakes and went around to the front to cut the grass. Instead of going to work at once the boys lay down in the grass for several minutes. Noticing that the cakes had a funny taste Eddie went back to Mrs. O'Hara's house and told her. She said that they might be stale or poisoned. He then went home and got something to eat and returned to Johnny, who had cut a lot of grass during his absence and was gathering it up. Suddenly Johnny fell back and cried, saying his lips hurt him. Eddie was going to tell Mrs. Henderson, but as his legs felt funny he sent Stella. Then he began to feel sick and lay on the sidewalk. Several of the neighbors ran out with Mrs. Henderson. to where they were, but although Mrs. O'Ha were, but although Mrs. O'Hara was less than half a block away she did not come out.

Upon cross-examination Eddie stated that when little Stella gave him the lady-fingers he opened one and saw some white stuff like cocoanut inside, and after rubbing his finger on it, he threw it away. It tasted like salt. He admitted, when pressed by Le Compte Davis, Esq., that he did not say anything to Mrs. O'Hara about the cakes tasting like poison, and that she did not say that they might be poisoned, when he spoke to her. She did say, however, that they might be stale, and told him to throw the rest away. When he went to his father's house his parents were not at home, so he went to the pantry, got an apple from a drawer in the cupboard, a handful of sugar from an old can on the shelf, and three sour pickles. He gave Johnny half of the apple, but ate all the sugar and plickles himself. His little sister ate some of the cakes, but did not share the apple. He also admitted that Mrs. O'Hara had always treated the children in the neighborhood well, and frequently gave them apples, sugar and little bresents, in return for which they used to run errands for her. She always allowed them to play on her vacant lots, and never said anything when they made a noise. When she returned from San Francisco in February last, a whole gang of fifteen or twenty of the children in the neighborhood called upon her in a body to welcome her, and she gave his little sister Stella a little cup as a present.

On redirect examination Eddie stated that this cup tasted 'just like the same

Stella a little cup as a present.

On redirect examination Eddle stated that this cup tasted "just like the same sort of poisonous stuff which was in the cakes," but on learning that the boy had been drinking out of it all the time, and last noticed the litter taste yesterday, the prosecuting attorney moved to strike out this ridiculous testimany.

Dr. E. T. Shoemaker of No. 525 Downey avenue was the next witness called. He testified to the effect that the deceased, Johnay Henderson, was brought to his office in convulsions and died there. In his opinion, the boy's death was due to an overdose of strychnia. The contents of the stomach of deceased had not yet been analyzed but were in the possession of the Coroner.

the stomach of deceased had not yet been analyzed but were in the possession of the Coroner.

On cross-examination an attempt was made by the defense to show by the witness that the symptoms exhibited by Johnny Henderson might have been caused by arsenical poisoning, but the doctor stated that he would still maintain the same opinion if all the authorities published on the subject differed with him.

At this juncture J. R. Rush, F.Sq., arose and informed the court that the complainant, whom he had never seen before, had fust evinced his feeling against Mrs. O'Hara by remarking that it was a ply some of the attorneys in the case could not get a dose of the same medicine the had administered to the boys. He therefore asked the court to have the man removed if he could not behave himself.

After a rebuke from the court, Strange changed his seat, and the proceelings were resumed with little Stella Strange on the stand.

At the request of Mr. Williams, the court undertook to interrogate the child, but after vainly attempting to induce her to speak the effort was abandoned as hopeless, and she was excused.

Mrs. O'Hara was thereupon called to the stand, but as her counsel vigorously objected to the State's endeavoring to prove its case by the defendant, she was an to the stand, but as her counsel vigorously objected to the State's endeavoring to prove its case by the defendant, she was and work at the time of the alleged poisoning and knew nothing of the case except that his boy was dead, he was excused.

Mrs. Atole Leavis was the next witness, but she admitted that she was not on friendly terms with Mrs. O'Hara.

Rosa Strange and George Leavis testified to the effect that some two or three years ago Mrs. O'Hara had threatened them if they trespassed in her alley.

The matter thereupon went ever until 10 o'clock this morning.
